(Third Revision)

Table 10 Surface Finish

(Clause 11)

Sl No.	Condition	Finish	Description	Remarks
(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)	(5)
i)	Hot rolled	No.0	Hot rolled and/or annealed	Suitable only for certain heat resisting applications where surface is not important, presence of scale impairs resistance to corrosion. Surface inspection is not practicable and fool proof
ii)		No.1	Hot rolled, annealed and descaled (pickled)	Generally used for industrial application where heat and corrosion resistance is more important and smoothness and uniformity of finish are not important. Repair grinding marks may be present in local areas
iii)	Cold rolled	2D	Cold rolled, annealed and descaled (pickled)	A dull, smooth and uniform surface finish most suited for deep drawing applications
iv)		2B	Cold rolled, annealed, descaled (pickled) and skin passed	A smoother and brighter surface finish (as compared to 2D) most suitable for general applications
v)		BA	Cold rolled, bright annealed in protective atmosphere	A cold rolled reflective surface finish. Suitable for applications demanding bright and lustrous surface.
vi)		No.3	Coarse grit polished surface finish	A uniform polished surface finish obtained with coarse abrasives of 100 to 120 grit on one or both surfaces. Suitable for use as a finish polished surface such as for panelling or any other application requiring such surface finish
vii)		No.4	Standard polished surface finish	A standard uniform polished surface finish produced with abrasives of 120 to 150 grit size and the finish is finer than No.3 finish. Suitable for general purpose polished finish used for panelling, appliances, equipment and architectural applications
